

HEINLEIN GENEALOGY

Pittsburgh Then and Now: Pittsburgh International Airport

In 1968, ground was broken for the international wing. Twice in the 1970s, growing traffic necessitated the construction of more gates.

But even with those expansions, the terminal was too small. In 1987, with financial backing from USAir, work began on a billion dollar expansion.